Eddie Nevels Robbed
Before Body Burned

J. O. Nevels reports that his brother, Eddie Nevels, who lived nine miles from Bonifay, Fla., was robbed, tied to his bed, and the house burned nearly four weeks ago. The body was badly charred.

Mr. Nevels said the FBI had been working on the case but so far had been unable to find any clues.

The victim, according to Mr. Nevels, had been living in his home alone for 22 years and was thought to have considerable money on the premises. He and his wife, Mrs. Wayland Young and Billy Head, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Head, as representatives of the Elba High School band to participate in the state school band festival to be held at the State University in Tuscaloosa, were present.

Eddie Nevels was born and reared in Coffee County and had many friends in this community.

Boys Direct Traffic

Three schoolboys, Elliott Kendrick, Robert Newton and Owen Zigar, form a squad of traffic police under the direction of Policeman Alex Strickland. The boys, who are the sons of Elba port speedsters and warn pedestrians at three dangerous street corners near the school building, Policeman Strickland said the boys are doing a fine job and are doing a good job of traffic safety at these corners. He said his traffic directors have reported several traffic violators by turning in the tag numbers. The mother of one of the boys said it is having a wholesome effect on her son. Before he became a traffic director, he had a hard time getting to school on time, but now he is up and doing, eager to get on the job.

Individual FFA chapters all over Alabama have been selected and their will be marched into our city Saturday morning to advance notices, the three day program will be chock full of enjoyable entertainment and the Elba boys are to be congratulated on their selection to represent Elba.

Andalusia got off to an early lead among schools and had led throughout the game until the final few minutes of the fourth period. With the score tied Enterprise tossed in a free shot to go ahead 23 to 22. Andalusia had a shifty toss that would have tied the score in the last minute but failed to make good. Andalusia basketters had been very good on their free throws up to that point.

Second seeded Opp defeated the Geneva team 41 to 30; Kingston trimmed Troy 56 to 38; and Georgiana defeated Ozark 57 to 32.

Other games saw Ashford eliminated Luverne 44 to 38; and Ashford to win over Cottontown 47 to 33.

Thursday night Samson plays Rehoboth at 7:30 and Florida, defending champions play Georgiana at 8:30.

Eiba meets Kinston at 2:00 Friday afternoon. The quarter-finals will be played

Street Improved

Ever since the bridge across Whitewater Creek has been built in front of the J. W. Cossitt Street, the roadway in front of the curb and the bridge in front of this property was so narrow that there was hardly enough room to squeeze through and frequent traffic snarls resulted.

Vehicles passing in front of the Cosby property made a habit of running across the yard which damaged the latter and the accompanying trees.

But now the trouble is being rectified. The State Highway Department, under direction by the City Government, has removed the curb and blacktopped the driveway from the bridge to the sidewalk, widening the street sufficiently to allow vehicles to pass without inconvenience.

A large catchbasin at the foot of the driveway has solved the drainage problem, the latter being accompanied by the latter and the accompanying trees.

At the outset, Mr. Dobbin stated that in view of the fact that at least four world-famous科学家 have recently issued warnings that it is possible for the hydrogen bomb to destroy every living thing on the planet, it behoves all of us to set to thinking as we have never thought before. He said the principle purpose in his address was to set his hearers to thinking.

Mr. Dobbin made a comparison of the different forms of government throughout the world, showing that we in the United States have the best government in the world, but it is far from perfect. He said that the powers of government, but it must be a controlled freedom. He condemned government or monopolistic control of production or market or government meddling. He stated that mass unemployment is a demoralizing factor in society and every possible effort to prevent it by creating jobs by attracting new industries and expanding the ones we already have.

The speaker said the State Planning Board had made an analysis of the state's resources and lines of industry and found that Alabama ranks near the bottom of this list of states, notwithstanding the fact that our state is wonderfully blessed with natural resources. He said the main reason for this is the fact that the industrial leaders of the state are afraid to risk their money.

He said the paramount object of the State Planning Board is to help cities and towns all over the state to select industries best suited to their communities.

The speaker said in any proposed industry by making a survey and exhaustive study of the field to determine the feasibility of the project. It also helps to solve other problems concerning a proposed industry. He said the best way to make the industry a success, including recommended changes, aiding in finding markets, raw materials and inducing outside industry to locate in the city.

Hollywood Actress Abandons Career For Religious Work

land's most promising actresses was quitting the movies and a career to become a missionary or teacher.

Mrs. Delores Ruth Medlin, the actress, making that statement, said her decisions had been made "because Christ is first in my life and I want to be where He can serve Him most."

The pretty blonde notified the studio where her career was hitting the top that she wanted to leave the actress. She said she would enter a theological school to study religion for two years. Then, she said, she would go to "Christian centers, either teaching in churches or missions or working in a church or missions work."

(Miss Townsend was "Sweetheart of the Orange Bowl Festival," and she was the first woman Santa Clara defeated Kentucky at Miami in the post-season football game in January.)

"I know that I can't serve Christ in motion pictures, but I feel God has led me into some sort of full-time service," the actress said.

"I was born in 1930, and it's only half a year ago and it was then theology became interesting to me. I had never let it become important before."

"Many young people I'd gone with to Hollywood high school asked me to join the First Presbyterian Church, and they said when Santa Clara defeated Kentucky at Miami in the post-season football game in January.)

"I realized I had to go to church all my life, but I didn't know what it was to be a Christian. So I looked into Christ's teachings."

Miss Townsend had gone to other churches, including the Presbyterians and the Mormons, when she was in high school. At Brigham Young University in Utah she was a member of the Mormon Sunday school on the campus, she said.

BOMBER outpost. It was Pete who solved the tough problem of running a telephone line through a conductive soil feet below a reinforced concrete runway. Engineers feared they would have to tear up the runway to do it.

It was the ferret's owner sort of felt that Pete could solve the problem. So, he fitted the ferret with a heavy string and dropped him into the hole and conduit with the order: "Take it through, Pete."

Two hours later, Pete ran on the other end dragging the string which was used to pull the heavy telephone line through the conduit.

Pete took the line through twice more in record time. But he was panting when he took off on the fourth and final trip. He stopped half way through.

After waiting a half hour for the tired ferret to gather wind and complete the trip, the workmen began to pull the heavy string in an effort to dislodge Pete.

The long distance rescue efforts continued for three hours with no luck.

Finally Pete emerged from the end of the tube to be greeted by assembled and anxious high brass, three hours after he disappeared into the conduit.

Pete only blinked at the cheers.

Apparently he had gone to sleep in the middle of the biggest day of his life.
